ROOSEVELT STARTS EAST AFTER STIRRING ADVOCACY FEDERAL UTILITIES CONTROL

'STICKS BY GUNS' IN REPLY TO CRITICS ST. PAUL ADDRESS

DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITY DEMANDS SEAWAY CONSTRUCTION

St. Paul, Minn.—With the belief that the "Smith-Roosevelt incident" was closed, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt left Tuesday for New York state.

They will make a short stop in Chicago and then go to Rochester, N. Y., where Roosevelt will speak.

The United Press showed the governor the comment of Representative Henry T. Rainey, Democratic house leader, that he believed the controversy started when former Governor Alfred E. Smith said he would oppose any "demagogue" who sought to raise one class against another was "washed out."

"Rainey is right," smiled the governor.

5,000 Crowd Auditorium
In his speech before 5,000 persons last night in the municipal auditorium, Roosevelt answered Smith indirectly by saying he supported a policy that "seeks to help all simultaneously" rather than any class control.

Roosevelt, who toured the northwest in 1920 when he was a candidate on the Democratic ticket for the vice presidency, said he found the chances for Democracy "100 per cent better" than any time he had known before.

He said he believed, after listening to reports from Democratic leaders in Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana, that the Democratic party had a good chance to carry all these states.

Northwest Democrats generally were pleased that Roosevelt had "stuck to his guns" in his speech which was given before the largest banquet group ever assembled in Minnesota.

"I plead not for class control, but for a true concept of interest," Roosevelt said. "Two weeks ago I said we were facing an emergency today more grave than that of war. This I repeat."

Points of Address
"It is to this national committee of interest that we should dedicate ourselves, if that be treason, make the most of it," he said.

Roosevelt's address:
Attacked presents public utility capital structures and corporate development.

Declared for strict government control of utilities and government operation in cases where satisfactory conditions for private operation could not be obtained.

Demanding construction of a Great Lakes-to-the-sea waterway with ultimate provision of outlets via both the St. Lawrence and the all-American route.

Asked a scientific tariff policy based on reciprocal exchange of goods.

"I am pleading," said Roosevelt, "for a policy broad enough to include every part of our economic structure. A policy that seeks to help all simultaneously, that shows an understanding of the fact there is no such thing as a free lunch."

Reminiscing over his previous visit when he campaigned for the vice presidency on a Democratic ticket headed by James A. Cox, Roosevelt touched on his efforts toward this country's joining the league, the plan of President Woodrow Wilson.

"I spoke with great emotion for the plan," Roosevelt said. "I now know that we strove for an ideal, an ideal that is unrealizable."

"After the speech a little, aged woman waylaid me and forced on me three medals, one American and two French. 'These were my boys' she said. 'He's still over there.'"

COMMITTEE TURNS DOWN BEER BILL BY VOTE OF 7 TO 4

BILL PROVIDING MANUFACTURE 4 PER CENT BEER REPORTED UNFAVORABLY

Washington—The senate manufacturing committee voted Tuesday 7 to 4 to report unfavorably to the senate the Bingham bill legalizing manufacture and sale of 4 per cent beer. Senator Bingham, Rep. Conn., said if all committee members had been present his bill would have lost by only one vote, 7 to 6.

Senator LaFollette was one of three Republicans voting for the measure.

Bingham said after the vote that "it's to be regretted the committee refused to give its approval to a proposal which had inherent in it the solution of our revenue problem."

It had been estimated that bottled beer would provide a federal revenue of from $300,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 depending on the tax imposed.

SEE BIG DECREASE SURPLUS OF WHEAT

Washington—The department of agriculture expects a 150,000,000 bushel reduction in the United States wheat surplus. The farm board expects a 10 cent rise in the price per bushel.

The department repeats its April 1 estimate of a 358,000,000 bushel winter wheat crop and reports a present indication that the spring wheat crop may also be below average. But even with an average spring crop, the total harvest of 700,000,000 bushels would be "less than domestic utilization during 1930-31 and less than the probable utilization for the current season," it stated. Present prices are so low that growers are feeding stock many millions more bushels than usual.

The department believes the volume of wheat exports will be maintained. World wheat conditions indicate that foreign demand for U. S. wheat will increase.

Holders of wheat who wish to continue to store their grain will be able to do so, and foreign buyers will not be assured of export regardless of price," the department reports.

This statement refutes persistent reports that the holdings of the Grain Stabilization corporation, the farm board subsidiary, have caused a critical shortage in storage facilities. When the Red Cross gets the remaining 20,000,000 bushels of the 40,000,000 the government gave to charity, the spot wheat holdings of the government will be reduced to about 105,000,000 bushels. Last year it held 257,000,000.

The leading candidate for the democratic nomination for the presidency received an enthusiastic reception as he prepared to tell the northwest and the country, in his first big public address, the problems confronting the nation today.

DEFENDS FAILURE OF COMMITTEE TO SLASH NAVY FUND

CUT OTHER APPROPRIATIONS INCLUDING FUND MAINTENANCE OF LOS ANGELES

Washington—Failure of the appropriations committee to slash funds for sea defense was defended on the floor of the house Tuesday by Chairman Ayres of the naval sub-committee as a necessary precaution in the face of unstable world conditions.

An appropriation bill providing $328,340,406 for the navy next year was laid before the house Tuesday. This is $21,921,667 less than current appropriations.

The committee said it was "unwilling" to advocate further economies which would curtail naval operations or the number of warships in active commission. It added, however, that "it is hoped" international conditions may change sufficiently "to justify such a course on the part of the administration."

Half the reduction below this year's appropriation was recommended by President Hoover, whose economy campaign last fall caused the United States Navy league to accuse him of "starving" the fleet.

Explaining its attitude toward maintenance of fleet operations at the status recommended by naval officials, the committee revealed the testimony of Admiral Pratt at secret hearings.

Admiral William Pratt said that in view of present conditions a "modified" rotating plan was being put into effect by the navy, whereby a number of ships will be alternated in full commission, thus effecting some savings.

No appropriation was provided for maintenance of the dirigible Los Angeles. The committee recommended that the airship be decommissioned.

The bill authorizes President Hoover to dispose of non-essential navy yards and naval shore stations. Ultimate savings under this provision are estimated at $2,500,000.

PROBE LINDBERGH CLUE MILK BOTTLE FAIRMONT, MINN.

BOTTLES BEARING MARK OF NEWARK DAIRY DISCOVERED BY CUSTOMERS

Fairmont, Minn.—The possibility that two milk bottles from a Newark, N. J., dairy company found here might have some connection with the kidnapping of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was investigated Tuesday by county authorities.

One bottle bearing the New Jersey company's imprint was found by Rev. C. B. Endresen and another was found by Mrs. N. C. Harber. Both noticed the New Jersey bottles Monday and questioned their milkman.

The milk was delivered by a small dairy company from a nearby community. The dairy proprietors explained that in the late summer they often have out of state bottles among their deliveries but that they couldn't account for the presence of the bottles discovered Monday.

Lindy Denies Contact
Hopewell, N. J.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has denied that contact has been reestablished with kidnappers of his son, as reported by "Jaf-sie," and again has asked the press not to trail private negotiations.

The colonel's statement, besides contradicting one made by John F. Condon Sunday, declared that reports of demands for additional ransom were untrue. He pointed out the difficulty encountered by himself and his agents in activity to return his son due to reporters' tenacity in "continued following of our representatives."

OPEN BIDS ON 493 MILES ROAD APR. 26

St. Paul—Bids on 493 miles of bituminous treatment for state highways will be received on April 26. Commissioner of Highways C. M. Babcock said today.

In addition to new sections of highway, 196 miles have been added to receive re-treatment, making a total of 1,231 miles. Included in the sections to be treated were:

Trunk highway No. 2, from Frazer to Pokegama Beach, 8.8 miles; T. H. No. 4, from Long Prairie to north county line, 33.2 miles; T. H. No. 28, from Morris to 1 1/2 miles west of Starbuck, 17.3 miles; from Swanville to junction with No. 4, 20.6 miles; from Fergus Falls to Henning, 34 miles.

DARROW MARSHALS WITNESSES 'HONOR' TRIAL CONTINUES

PHYSICIAN WHO ATTENDED MRS. MASSIE TESTIFIES ON STAND TUESDAY

Courtroom, Honolulu, T. H.—The wounds inflicted upon Thalia Fortescue Massie when five natives attacked her were described in detail Tuesday as trial of Mrs. Massie's mother, Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue, her husband, Lt. Thomas H. Massie, and two navy enlisted men, on charges of killing Joe Kahahawai, was resumed.

With characteristic showmanship Clarence Darrow, chief of defense counsel, recalled Dr. Paul Withington who treated Mrs. Massie after she was attacked.

"Mrs. Massie had a badly smashed jaw," he said. "It became infected." "Her body was covered with bruises."

"Her condition was so critical for a time that we feared for her." He told of Mrs. Massie's expectant motherhood after the assault. It was believed Mrs. Massie would testify late Tuesday.

Dr. Withington said Massie was "frantic for several weeks."

The physician said Massie wanted to "clear his wife's name."

Massie's physical and mental condition while his wife was in the hospital was described by Capt. Samuel G. Stewart, retired, who formerly was general passenger agent of the Oahu railway.

"After the attack, he went into a physical decline."

Stewart was believed the first of a series of defense witnesses whom the shrewd Darrow plans to use to build an insanity defense. Darrow has tried to show throughout that Massie "was not himself" after the assault.

'DUMMY' TRADERS CHARGED IN LIST OF SHORT SELLERS

BRAINE CHARGES DUMMY NAMES LISTED TO SHIELD IDENTITY TRADERS

Washington—Many of the names of short sellers submitted to the senate banking committee by the New York stock exchange appear to represent dummy traders, according to some senators who have partially examined the list.

Simultaneously countless rumors circulated that this or that prominent politician, statesman or cabinet member was named in the list. A senator who had read the names from "A" to "C," inclusive, said he found no recognizable names. Another person who had seen the report, however, said "nationally known names" were in it.

Senator Blaine, Rep. Wis., was one who said many dummy traders may be listed possibly to shield the identity of actual short sellers. Blaine said he had been howled down in the committee recently when he proposed the investigation be shifted to the offices of brokers themselves.

"I shall renew that suggestion," Blaine said Tuesday. "I think we should take a few of the names representing large short sales—perhaps half a dozen names would be enough—and go direct to the office of the broker who handled the deal to determine who was behind the sale."

Complaint that the list includes dummy traders was not directed at the stock exchange which is conceded to have furnished to the committee its actual record of the short positions of all traders as of the opening of business April 8. The material was submitted in the form of moving picture reels upon which the sales orders had been photographed.

The investigation has been postponed until Thursday with Richard Whitney, president of the New York exchange, to continue testifying on that day.

Olson Urges Opposition to Federal Wage Cuts

St. Paul—Governor Floyd B. Olson Tuesday sent telegrams to Minnesota's two senators and 10 representatives in Washington urging they oppose proposed pay cuts for government employees and advocate reductions in armaments.

DRIVER OF HOLDUP CAR FLOODS MOTOR TAKE TWO BANDITS

OVER HALF OF $7,000 LOOT OBTAINED RAID K. C. BANK RECOVERED

Kansas City, Kan.—Four bandits held up the Brotherhood State bank Tuesday and fled with $7,000 in cash.

Two of them were arrested a few minutes later and $4,712 of the loot was recovered.

Officers also took into custody a third man and a woman and held them as suspects, believing the bandits had planned to transfer to their automobile in the escape.

The bandits entered the bank, covered H. F. Albert, cashier, with a revolver and forced him to hand over $7,000.

They ran to an automobile waiting in the street. In his excitement the driver flooded the engine and was unable to start it.

The four men abandoned the car and ran down the street. Police captured one of the fugitives, and C. A. Thomas, a teller in the bank, and William Beets, a motor car salesman, took the second one.

Suspicion was directed to a man and woman in a motor car, and they were taken for questioning.

BLAST DESTROYS POWDER CACHE IN SUBURB OF TOKIO

ONE PERSON MISSING, SEVEN INJURED AND 50 RESIDENCES DAMAGED

Tokio—A gun-powder magazine at Takinokawa, a Tokyo suburb, was destroyed by explosions and fire early Tuesday, with one person reported missing, seven injured and 50 residences damaged. The magazine was under army jurisdiction. Authorities ordered an investigation.

Buenos Aires—Fire at the naval arsenal warehouses on the waterfront here exploded deposits of paint and inflammable stores Tuesday and threatened to spread over a large area. Officials said the explosions were caused by oxygen tanks. The warehouses contained large quantities of food, wood, and various naval supplies.

OFFICERS HURT IN SEARCH FOR BODY

Chicago—A gas explosion that roared out when policemen switched on electric lights to search for the body of a suicide in a North Clark street flat Tuesday wounded two policemen probably fatally and seven other persons less seriously.

Hudson avenue police went to the flat in response to a telephone call that Edward Gelp, 40, had committed suicide.

Policemen John Runge and George Tworek, both 41, were taken to hospitals near death.

Seven other persons, including neighbors, were cut and bruised by the blast.

The body of Gelp was recovered later. He had shot himself before turning on the gas.

Italian Fliers Lose Lives in Air Crash

Rome—Three Italian naval fliers were killed Monday and four were injured when a large seaplane fell in the bay at Orbetello during a demonstration flight before cadets of the maritime warfare institute.

Cites "Occupational Diseases" as Plague

Chicago—The Rev. Roy L. Smith of Minneapolis told his fellow Methodist ministers at a conference here that they were suffering from a number of "occupational diseases."

Among those he listed were: Over-inflation of the ego. Parochial paralysis. Denominational dyspepsia. Hypercidity of the sermon. Careless sermons have reacted to the detriment of all pronouncements from the pulpit, he said.

EXPECTATION OF WAR DEBT CANCELLATION INDICATED BY BUDGET

Chamberlain in Introducing Budget Reiterates Britain's Stand on War Debts and Reparations

BULLETIN:

Washington—Senator Borah republican, Idaho, Tuesday in the senate opened a forceful attack against proposals to cancel war debts owed the United States. Borah apparently was driven to speak by announcement in London that the new British budget made no provision for debt payments to this country.

London—Britain's expectation of a revision or cancellation of war debts this year was clearly indicated Tuesday by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, in introducing his 1932-33 budget in the house of commons, providing for expenditures of $2,903,140,000, the smallest since 1924.

To Make Later Statement
Chamberlain reiterated his Feb. 2 statement of reparations and war debts policy, namely, that Britain stands for general all-around cancellation. He said he had not included in his estimated receipts anything from reparations or war debts owed to Britain by her dominions and former allies, and likewise had made no provision to meet payment of Britain's war debt to the United States.

"After the deliberations at Lausanne," Chamberlain said, "I will submit to parliament whatever proposals may be necessary to give effect to the measures we have agreed to."

He thus indicated that a supplementary budget may be necessary in the autumn.

Chamberlain's maiden budget afforded no relief to the heavily-burdened British taxpayer, but he sounded a note of hope that the country would emerge triumphant from the economic tragedy that has beset the world.

He revealed that the government had decided to create a fund of 150,000,000 pounds to maintain the stability of sterling while England is off the gold standard.

Revises Tea Duty
His decision to revise the duty on tea to its 1924 level, where it remained until Winston Churchill abolished it, was estimated to produce 3,600,000 pounds. By refusing to reduce the tax on beer, he hit his fellow-countrymen in their two most popular beverages.

Chamberlain was cautiously optimistic of the future. After commenting on the hardships of the past year, he said:

"Only in the past few months has some revival of trade and employment led to hope that the worst is past."

The chancellor spoke for an hour and three-quarters, concluding his speech at 8:16 p. m.

Deprive Conservation Unit Necessary Funds

St. Paul—The state conservation commission Tuesday was deprived of funds with which to conduct its land, timber and mineral activities.

Attorney General Henry N. Benson ruled that the state auditor's office cannot legally give to the commission any of the $313,000 appropriated by the 1931 legislature for the auditor's administration of the activities.

Benson held that the money was appropriated to a large extent for purposes which still adhere to the auditor's office.

Ask Murder Indictment Against Nebraska Man

St. Paul—A Ramsey county grand jury will be asked to return a first degree murder indictment Wednesday against James Tindle, 20, Nebraska City, Neb., soldier, for the killing of Henry VanHorn, alleged bootlegger.

Tindle, police said, confessed shooting Van Horn with a short gun.

The grand jury also has named a committee to investigate the charges of Charles Buckbee, mayor of White Bear that gambling dives and crime dens are allowed to flourish in Ramsey county.

Nip Desperate Plot to Free Gangsters

Los Angeles, Calif.—A desperate plot to free two gangsters and a convicted bank robber from jail, was reported Tuesday.

One or possibly more high county officials were to have been kidnaped to force the release from jail here of Ralph Sheldon, Chicago gangster, and Louis Frank, convicted kidnaper and Nick Radovich, San Francisco ex-convict and bank robber, officials said.

ALL TEACHERS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS HERE REEMPLOYED

CONTRACTS NOW IN MAIL; TRANSFERS TO JUNIOR HIGH REQUIRED

Contracts were being forwarded Tuesday to all teachers of public grade schools and Washington for reemployment next school year.

The Brainerd Board of Education at a meeting Monday evening voted to reemploy all teachers. The contracts as sent out include a few salary adjustments but there has been no general increase or cuts of salaries.

Louis F. Hohman, secretary of the board, announced that final allotments of teachers will be made at a meeting of the board.

The selections of principals of the new junior high school and junior department of the Washington high school were virtually completed. The principals suggested are a present members of the faculty of the Washington high school. Their names will be announced by the board when contracts have been accepted by them.

The new junior high school will necessitate a transfer of 14 teachers from grade schools and the Washington high school. Four special teachers will be employed in addition.

Condemned 7 Granted Stay of Execution

Montgomery, Ala.—Seven Negro youths, convicted of assaulting two white girls a year ago, Tuesday were granted by the Alabama supreme court a stay of execution of their death sentences pending an appeal to the United States supreme court.

The stay was granted until June 24. They were to be executed May 13, the date set previously by the state high court which recently overruled an appeal.

Shell-Shocked Vet Held Extortion Plot

Chicago—Andrew Matzukevich, a shell-shocked veteran of the Russian and American armies, was held to the federal grand jury Tuesday on charges of forgery after police said he confessed writing extortion letters to Rosa Raisa, opera star.

Matzukevich admitted, police said, he wrote to the Chicago Civic Opera singer demanding $500 and threatening her child if the money was not paid. Mme. Raisa and her husband are now in Italy with the child.

Provides for Funeral in Senate Chambers

Washington—The senate Tuesday adopted a resolution providing for a funeral Wednesday in the senate chamber for Sen. Harris, democrat, Georgia, who died Monday and inviting to attend the members of the house, the president, the cabinet and the diplomatic corps.

The house voted to adjourn Wednesday out of respect to Sen. Harris.

Utility Issue Dominates

The New York executive in a press interview earlier had said he favored development of both the St. Lawrence and the so-called all-American seaway and said the most important factor was not which plan was started first but actual work on one of them.

A major portion of the governor's address was concerned with the public utility issue. Roosevelt declared himself for strict regulation

Roosevelt Praises Olson "Friend and Colleague"

St. Paul—In his introductory remarks last night, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt paid tribute to "my friend and colleague" Governor Floyd B. Olson.

The Minnesota governor, who was at the speakers' table, smiled as the crowd applauded.

Roosevelt cheered Olson as he said, "Well, we won our fight," referring to the contest of both New York's and Minnesota's redistricting acts. Both were passed against the governors' approval and both legislatures attempted to complete the action without signature of the acts by their respective executives.

and government operation in cases where private interests refused to operate on what seemed to be a reasonable basis.

"The government itself should not engage in the utility business if it can find private initiative and private capital willing to undertake the business for a reasonable and fair return on the capital necessary," Roosevelt said.

"If the government is not able to find private individuals or corporations willing to do this then government must step in and do it itself.

"If, during this past generation, that fundamental had been observed there would be no problem of the control of utilities today. It is an unfortunate fact, which is not denied by the leading bankers or the leading utility men, that largely through the building up of a series of great mergers and a series of great holding companies, the capital structure especially in the case of the electric utilities, has been allowed to expand to an extent far beyond the actual wise and necessary cash investment.

"It is a simple fact that in thousands of cases throughout the United States electric utility companies have sought to and in many cases have succeeded in obtaining permission to charge rates which will bring an unnecessarily large return, not on the cash investment, but on a definite inflation of capital.

Scores Republicans

"I am putting this case very calmly and conservatively. . . . The net result of our blindness, or our failure to regulate—is that in most places in the United States the householder and the farmer and the small business men are paying vastly more for electricity than they have any right to be paying."

Roosevelt blamed the Republican party for intensifying the depression by its tariff policy.

"A proper tariff policy must be a complete reversal of the methods of the present administration," he said. "Reciprocal exchange of goods so necessary to us and to all nations is the only realistic method of making goods move."

Roosevelt's receptions here included numerous conferences and a meeting with Gov. Floyd B. Olson, the only Farmer-Labor executive in the country.

Oklahoma City—Gov. W. H. Murray criticized in detail the St. Paul speech of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

He said the New York governor's rhetoric was weak; that he merely expressed platitudes.

Murray accused Roosevelt of saying nothing about credit, banking, coinage, or currency—"the causes of the present bankruptcy of the world."

"Roosevelt flies about in a political storm, while during the next four years the country will need a president who will stand erect against all the winds that blow from every class and factory," Murray said.

In his desire to aid the 'little man,' which in itself is sound, he failed to state even remotely how it should be done."

Washington—Asserting that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's speech at St. Paul last night would become an historic document, Sen. Dill, Democrat, Washington, today inserted the speech in the Congressional Record.

BANDS OF LEGION TO COMPETE FOR LARGE AWARDS

DRUM CORPS ALSO TO JOIN CONTESTS AT DISTRICT CONVENTIONS

Cash prizes running into thousands of dollars are offered Legion drum corps, bands and glee clubs competing at the various congressional district conventions of the American Legion and Legion Auxiliary throughout Minnesota in June, the first of which will be held at Owatonna June 4 and 5 for the First district, commanded by William Denker of Owatonna, with James Starkey of Rochester as adjutant.

The other district conventions will also be held in June, according to C. A. Zwiener, state adjutant, who with Miss Blanche W. Scallen, state secretary of the American Legion Auxiliary, will attend all district sessions, as will Oscar F. Youngdahl, department commander, and Mrs. H. D. Cory, state president of the Auxiliary.

The Second district will meet at Comfrey June 26-27; Third district at Hastings June 19-20; Fourth district at St. Paul June 18; Sixth district at Little Falls June 19-20; Seventh district at Granite Falls June 5-6; Ninth district at Warren June 28-29; and Tenth district at Hopkins June 11-12.

The Fifth district dates have not yet been set, while the Eighth district meets bi-monthly and sets its place and date of meeting at each session.

The Tenth district will celebrate its achievement in exceeding its 1932 membership quota earlier in the year than ever achieved before by any Minnesota district. District Commander Dr. Gus R. Anderson of Cambridge led the district over the top by January 15, or 36 days earlier than the same district went over the top the preceding year.

The Third district, led by Commander Lloyd Kollner of Stillwater, was second over the top. Third place honors went to the Fourth district, led by Harry W. Wallin of St. Paul.

Dates of the annual state convention in Minnesota, to be held at Bemidji, are August 21-24 inclusive. "Bemidji's Lakes and Trails are Calling," has been adopted as one slogan, while another says "Be Wid-Ji at Bemidji Next August." The Legion national convention is at Portland, Oregon, Sept. 11-15.

U. OF M. BOTANIST IN ILLUSTRATED LECTURE FRIDAY

An illustrated lecture on "Minnesota Wild Flowers" will be given in the First Baptist church on Friday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock, by Professor N. L. Huff of the department of botany, University of Minnesota.

Professor Huff has upwards of one thousand colored slides, made by himself. The ones used Friday afternoon will be from this collection.

A ten minute talk on the selection and care of bulbs will also be given by Dr. G. I. Badeaux.

The above lecture is under the auspices of Circle No. 3, and the members of that circle will serve a silver tea in the parlors of the church immediately following the lecture.

Another special feature of the program will be the presentation of a package of select and named gladioli bulbs, by A. P. Cardie, to every person attending the silver tea.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS HEAR TAX TALK BY SCALLON

Possible advantages and disadvantages as claimed for the proposed state income tax were outlined Monday night by E. P. Scallion, Crosby, representative at large from Crow Wing and Morrison counties, in an address before the League of Women Voters here.

Describing the different methods of taxation involved in the Minnesota system, Mr. Scallion elaborated on the minute details involving taxation. He presented an impartial survey of the situation indicating his grasp on the subject by his enlightening version of the inner workings of taxation.

Mr. Scallion emphatically stated that any scheme of tax revision, while having in view a more equitable distribution of the tax burden, must have as its paramount purpose a reduction in the present excessive burden on farms, homes and other tangible property, real or personal.
Therefore, Mr. Scallion continued, there must be a replacement or offset tax and not simply a device for raising additional spending revenue.

THE GIBSON FLAN—

The American proposal for armament reduction, broached the other day at Geneva by Ambassador Hugh Gibson, at least has the merit of tackling the vexing problem of security from an entirely new angle.

Since the World War, practically all attempts to reduce land armaments have come to nothing because certain nations, especially France, have insisted that they must be safe from aggression by possible enemies before they can disarm.

The American proposal, aimed to get around this objection, is simply that the most powerful offensive weapons available be legislated out of existence. If the defense is given an overwhelming preponderance over the offense, it is argued, all nations will be safe from aggression because no one will care to wage a war on the offensive.

Accordingly, it is suggested that heavy mobile guns, tanks and poison gas be abolished.

Back of all of this, of course, there is one single factor; the tremendous increase in the fire power of infantry made possible in the last generation by the development of quick-firing small caliber arms.

At the time of the American Revolution, an infantryman was doing well to get off one shot every minute and a half. By the time of the Civil War things were a little better, but two shots a minute still constituted extraordinarily rapid shooting.

Then came the breech-loading, repeating rifle. The infantryman now could fire half a dozen shots a minute without undue haste. On the heels of this came the machine gun, capable of spitting out bullets at a rate better than one a second—and the defense became almost infinitely superior to the offense.

To meet this there came a great development in artillery. If the defending infantry could not be routed by the bayonet, it could be blown out of existence by a heavy barrage, or suffocated in a flood of gas shells. Hand in hand came the tank, to root out and destroy machine gun nests. The old equilibrium of war was at least partially restored.

Now the American proposal urges that the machine gun and automatic rifle be made supreme again. Whether it is accepted or not, it marks an interesting development in the history of warfare.

SMITH'S FINE SUGGESTION—

Whatever you may think of the other points in Alfred E. Smith's Jefferson Day banquet address, there is one point at which you will probably admit that the former governor hit the nail right on the head. That was in his plea for short, concise and intelligible party platforms.

For all the importance that politicians usually attach to the writing of the platform, it is doubtful if the document, after it is finally written and accepted, makes a great deal of difference to the average voter. This is partly because the emphasis nowadays is more on candidates than on platforms; but it is also partly because no ordinary citizen ever reads the platform in its entirety, or takes time to ponder what it means.

There is really, as Mr. Smith says, no reason why a platform cannot be short and to the point, a document that can be read through in a couple of minutes. To bring about that reform would be to improve vastly our political machinery. Let's hope both major parties see the point.

A CRITICAL PERIOD—

The crisis in the German government's attempt to prevent seizure of power by Hitler's Fascists may very well come in the next few days. The recent government decree ordering the suppression of the "storm troops" maintained by the Fascists will probably tell the tale.

If these semi-military organizations are in fact disbanded without too much trouble, there is little chance for Hitler, already repudiated at the polls, to take by force the position his fellow citizens refused to give him with their votes. But if the attempt at suppression leads to fighting, a situation is apt to develop in which almost anything can happen.

The present is probably one of the most critical periods in the history of the German republic.

SAVE THESE CHILDREN—

One of the findings of the recent White House Conference on Child Health and Protection that deserves more publicity than it has received is the revelation that there are in the United States no fewer than 5,630,000 school children who are physically or mentally retarded enough to need special attention and education.

Fully 3,000,000 children with impaired hearing were found. A million more had defective speech and another million had weak hearts. About 300,000 were crippled, and 14,000 were blind.

The conference report points out that giving these children proper care, so that they can be educated according to their needs, is far less expensive than neglecting them and letting them become public charges later on. It is a matter that needs the nation's earnest attention, and it represents one field of activity where the current demand for economy should not be heard.

Bright Spots in Today's Business

Cleveland—Steelmaking operations were estimated by the magazine "Steel" at 23 per cent of capacity, against 21 per cent last week.

Detroit—March sales of new passenger cars in 23 states showed an increase of 11.2 per cent over February, according to R. L. Polk & Co.

New York—Deposits in savings banks in New York state increased $9,153,782 in March to a total of $5,265,985 as of March 31.

Chicago—Peoples Gas, Light & Coke Co. and subsidiaries reported for the quarter ended March 31 net income of $1,692,802 compared with $1,772,339 in the first quarter of 1931.

Pittsburgh—Total production of polished plate glass in the first quarter amounted to 13,340,980 square feet against 13,557,097 in the last quarter of 1931.

Minneapolis—Northern States Power Co. reported for the year ended Feb. 29 net income, after taxes, of $17,548,435, compared with $10,622,970 in the preceding fiscal year.

Louisville, Ky.—Yousville Gas & Electric Co. reported net income for the year ended Feb. 29 was $5,629,622, after taxes, compared with $5,546,692 in the preceding twelve months.

6. Don't cut out suddenly from behind a parked car—it may be both the start and finish of your trip.

A recent nation-wide survey shows that more than 90 per cent of automobile accidents are caused by bad human judgment, human carelessness and human stupidity. To aid in lessening the number of accidents the Brainerd Daily Dispatch will publish a series of brief, effective suggestions in driving.

Brainerd People Home From Trip West Coast

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Lowe, 317 Main street, returned to Brainerd Saturday after a three weeks trip west, visiting at Portland, Seattle, Vancouver, Olympia, Auburn and Yakima.

Miss Fern Lowe returned with her parents. She had visited relatives and friends on the west coast the last two months.

Enroute home, the Brainerd party visited Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Vanok at Yakima, Wash. The Vanoks are former Brainerd people and wished to be remembered to their many friends here.

CHAPTER I

SHE dabbed at her eyes and leaned across the wicker of hand-painted china toilet things to powder her nose. Mrs. Milton, stout and voluble, hustled in wearing a gay flowered kerchief. "What on earth's the matter, Susan Carey?"

The girl stammered, "I—I got something in my eye." "Well, now, let's see!" Mrs. Milton flipped a big white handkerchief out of the top drawer and made a funnel of one corner. "Let me at it, I'm great at getting those things out. Once Papa got a piece in his eye so big he made a joke out of it. He says, 'I bet if I called the Consumer's Company they'd sent out a truck for that load of coal.' Let me see, Susan."

The girl winked her eyes rapidly, regaining her composure. "It's all right now, honestly. I believe I've got rid of it." "That's good." Mrs. Milton beamed at her. "You look very pretty tonight, I must say. Pink's your color. The boys'll be after you, Susan Carey. What I say is what's the use of you bothering your head with all this business course nonsense when you'll soon be stepping out and getting married." Her laugh wheezed out suddenly, disconcertingly.

Susan smiled. In some obscure way the outlook had been lightened.

"I'm going to have to earn my living in the meantime," she said. "How's your aunt?" Mrs. Milton wanted to know.

"Oh, Aunt Jessie's fine." Susan frowned a little as she said it. Mrs. Milton's sharp eyes caught the frown.

"As strict as ever?" she wanted to know.

Susan flushed and nodded. Mrs. Milton chuckled sympathetically. "Well, as I always say, I don't believe in bringing up girls too stiff-necked," she observed comfortably. "Mine always had a good time. There's Veronica who's got herself a good husband and a nice home out in Oak Park. And Grace out in Pasadena. My girls had lots of beaux and I encourage 'em. I believe in it. If you don't see they have a good time somebody else will. And that may not be so good. Your Aunt Jessie's old style like my mother. My mother thought we ought to sit on the front steps, all in a row, until we were 30." She laughed wheezyly. "Well, none of us did. Both myself and Lida—that's my younger sister—eloped."

Susan smiled in sympathy. "But I don't particularly want to marry young," she explained. "I've got to work and help Aunt Jessie because she raised me and I owe her a lot. I just want a little freedom and some fun."

"That's right. That's right," Mrs. Milton patted her on the shoulder. "Now you run along back and start having some. There are some boys there who won't want to miss you in your pink dress."

A bit reluctantly Susan obeyed. Rose Milton, a tall blond girl wearing many blue ribbons, rushed up to her. The rug in the big front room had been rolled back and four or five couples were dancing. Not to the music of the radio. A dark-haired young man was bounding out "St. Louis Blues" at the piano in the corner. He played with his whole body. Hands, feet, even his head moved to the rhythm. Susan stared at him, fascinated.

Rose led her toward the pianist. "Ben Lampman, here's the girl

ROBERT DUNBAR

I told you about. Susan Carey. She's not a nitwit like the rest of us. She has brains. Talk to her." The young man stopped playing "St. Louis Blues" in the very midst of a mournful phrase and jumped up. He was tall and lean and vaguely rumpled looking. Susan put her slim hand into the crushing grip he offered her. Someone turned on the radio after a moment or two of grumbling on the part of the interrupted dancers and young Lampman murmured, "Want to dance?"

Susan did. Although she had so few opportunities she danced well. Even this indifferent partner could not spoil her pleasure in rhythm. "Did—did anybody ever tell you that you looked like Joan Crawford?" he asked.

Susan smiled and fluttered a glance upward from beneath long lashes. "Yes," she murmured. "I suppose like all the girls you want to go into the movies," he muttered, trying to make conversation.

"I hadn't thought about it," said Susan. "I'm learning to be a big business girl."

"That's terrible," barked Ben Lampman. "I think the men in the gay nineties were right. Women's place is in the home."

Susan stared. She thought he must be joking. But the young man was in deadly earnest. "Makes me sick, seeing these swarms of young girls all over downtown, morning and night," he said. "They ought to be in nice kitchens or taking care of kids."

"How silly!" trilled Rose Milton, overlooking this last. "Rally round, girls and boys, and listen to Ben rave. He's on the stump again."

THE young man reddened. Rose grasped his hands and pulled man's place was in the home. He and Aunt Jessie would get along rather well.

However, Ben spared her any more harangues. He talked desultorily of music, of what he wanted to do. He dreamed of having an orchestra of his own "like White Man's." Susan could sympathize with this.

"I think that would be wonderful," she told him enthusiastically. "Do you, honestly?" He was almost pathetic in his desire for approval.

"Yes, I do." And then Susan told him about her struggles with the demon, shorthand, and her fear that she would never conquer what Aunt Jessie called "the business world."

BEN LAMPMAN growled, "Stick with it. You'll be successful, I can see that. Don't mind what I said tonight about girls working. I know that's behind the times. From what you tell me you've got a hard row to hoe with this aunt of yours. You've got to strike out for yourself."

Susan flushed and stammered loyally, "Aunt Jessie is all right. She just doesn't understand."

Now they were at her doorstep. The little house looked shrouded and secretive. For a minute Susan felt a nervous. What if Aunt Jessie should be waiting up, should call out, "Come straight in this minute, Susan Carey!" She had been known to do that.

Hastily she held out her hand. "It was awfully nice of you to bring me home," she murmured. "Thanks so much."

Ben Lampman grasped the hand feverishly. "I want to come and see you sometime," he said.

Susan felt a distaste for the young man's ardor. "I—I don't know," she said vaguely. "Maybe, some time."

"I'll telephone," he promised as she ran up the stairs.

Aunt Jessie called out, "Who was that you were talking to?"

Susan said, "Just a friend of Rose's who brought me home."

She crept into her room, turned on the light and moved about as softly as possible, making ready for bed. After she had hung away the pink dress and slipped into her worn old dressing gown she stood for a long time staring at herself in the mirror.

Susan yawned and just then Aunt Jessie, to whom every creek and whisper in the little house spoke as plainly as a child to its mother, called out, "For heaven's sake, Susan Carey, stop primping in front of the mirror and get to bed. You've got to get up in the morning."

Oh, the morning! As if she'd forgotten the sarcastic shorthand teacher and the difficult tests there would be, next day. Susan thought of Ben Lampman and squared her shoulders. "I'll pass those tests," she said sturdily. "And I'll get a job and make money and put in an oil burner for Aunt Jessie and get a silver fox for myself. I'll show them!"

Irrelevantly Susan wondered what Robert Dunbar would have thought of Rose Milton's party. He probably would have been bored to death. Dancing to the radio, eating brick ice cream from a golden oak dining room table, would probably not fit in with his ideas of safety.

"Wonder what he's really like," Susan speculated just before she dropped off to sleep. She had no notion how soon she was to know about that!

POLICE CHIEF TO PADLOCK GAS PUMPS WHERE OPERATORS REFUSE PAY FEES

The city council issued a direct command Monday night to gasoline station operators who have not paid pump licenses, due January 1.

"Pay up or lock up" was virtually the order.

Informed by Mrs. E. T. Fleener, city clerk, that collecting delinquent gasoline pump licenses was becoming irksome to the extreme, aldermen voted to instruct the chief of police and city attorney to collect the fees or padlock the pumps. The motion was passed on presentation of Alderman W. J. Hall and George Erickson.

Rumblings of court action were heard in the action of the aldermen according to their own statements.

"These companies can well afford to pay their fees. It is their move to bring a test case to decide if they are required to pay the license fee of $25 a pump. If these companies want to make a test case out of it, let them go ahead," was the sentiment expressed by various aldermen.

Twenty-six pump licenses, due January 1, are delinquent. Thirty-one pumps, due January 1 have paid up fees. Practically the same number of pumps will become due July 1, Mrs. Fleener said.

Semi-Final Match Set In Cuyuna Range Bridge and Cribbage Tourney

The bridge and cribbage tournament being played by the members of the Cuyuna Range Masonic lodge will reach the semi-final match on April 21. The Compass team conceded honors for the fourth round on April 14 to the Square team, with scores for the evening's play being 24,500 in bridge and 6,431 in cribbage for the Squares, against 23,844 in bridge and 6,211 in cribbage for the Compass players.

The Compass team, of which D. R. Sandstrom is captain, leads in grand total points in bridge and in the total of both game, with 85,042 points, while Capt. F. Curran's team has a total of only 77,312.

Individual high scores for the tournament so far are held by R. H. Arvidson with 7,423 in bridge and F. C. Markwardt with 5,641 in cribbage.

DESIRES NAMES OF GOLD STAR MOTHERS

Desirous to secure a complete record of the list of Gold Star mothers and fathers in the community so they may be honored in some fitting manner, Mrs. John Aiton, chairman of the Gold Star committee of the Legion Auxiliary Monday requested the co-operation of relatives of those concerned. Mrs. Aiton asked that information be telephoned her, phone 682, at the earliest convenience.

Gold Star fathers will be honored this year similar to honors accorded the mothers. The honors may be conferred Mother's Day. Gold Star mothers and fathers are designated as parents of soldiers who died in the line of duty or before honorable discharge from duty.

A meeting of the Legion Auxiliary was held Monday night at which time plans for fitting recognition were discussed.

TIMIDITY, WILES OF MILADY IN EARLIER ERA REACTED IN FACULTY PLAY APR. 29

The dean of writers of short plays, William Dean Howells, achieved his supreme effort in the line of comedy, some thirty years ago, in the "Mouse Trap," to be presented Monday evening, April 29, at the Washington high school auditorium by members of the high school faculty.

The play is a clever satire on the "Woman Suffrage" movement, and those who remember the days when ladies really were terrified at the thought of a mouse in the room will be most pleasantly re-mindful of that period. Those whose thoughts are completely modern will enjoy seeing how their mothers and aunts reacted when so ferocious a beast approached a lady, and may or may not yearn for the days that are no more.

The play revolves around one Mrs. Somers and Mr. Campbell, who are having a lovers' quarrel that starts with a speech of his against the woman suffrage petition and, like so many lovers' quarrels, becomes a serious matter when the mouse and timorous ladies are brought into the affair. The plot gathers speed as it goes along, until one lone man stands his ground encircled by accusing and frightened ladies. To him they turn for on him they rely for rescue; to his ingenuity they appeal to save them from their perilous position. Browbeaten, misunderstood, harassed, he knows not which way to turn until his much more ingenious sister solves the problem. There is a delicious bit of by-play when the sister, in the person of Miss Haug, appears to accuse the hero, Richard Penrose, and like so many sisters, berates him for his lack of action. There is another when Mrs. Curwen, Miss Farrankop, flirts with him from the vantage point of the library table.

Ever after all ladies but one are safe from the marauding beast, his problem is not yet solved, for stern and aloof on a plush rocking chair stands Miss Tornstrom, deathly afraid of the mouse and unable to set foot upon the floor. The solution of the problem rests upon his shoulders. Whether he and William Dean Howells leave her standing there or get her safe upon the floor remains to be seen.

Costumes and hats of the period should transport one to that delightful era when ladies were ladies and boots and knickers were unheard of, when to be delightfully feminine was the proper thing, when gentlemen really did open doors and help ladies over "tiles and brooks and Sir Walter Raleighs lent the ladies a hand as they gathered their skirts to keep them unspotted from the mud.

Performing this play are the following members of the high school faculty:

Mr. Campbell—Mr. Penrose.
Mrs. Somers—Miss Tornstrom.
Mrs. Miller—Miss Ruth.
Mrs. Curwen—Miss Farrankop.

Mrs. Bemis—Miss Flueck.
Mrs. Roberts—Miss Haug.
Jane—Miss Clausen.

Dodgers' Pitchers Show Unexpected Strength

HURLERS ALLOW 4 RUNS IN AS MANY GAMES THIS YEAR

New York—Those amazing Brooklyn Dodgers have begun to show unexpected strength on the mound, where they were rated the weakest before the season opened.

In four games, four Brooklyn hurlers have allowed a total of only four runs. Bill Clark held the Braves to two runs; Dazzy Vance blanked the Phillies; Van Lingo Mungo limited the Phillies to two runs in 11 innings, and Monday Babe Phep blanked those same Phillies while the Dodgers scored eight runs.

In three consecutive games of 29 innings, Philadelphia has been able to score in only one, the 11th on Sunday when they made two runs. In those same contests the Dodgers garnered 13 runs.

While limiting the Phillies to six scattered hits Monday, Phelps opposed a parade of four Philadelphia pitchers, Grabowski, Elliot, Nichols and Adams, who yielded 13 safeties. Phelps' efforts were aided by Gleason Wright's homer and Hack Wilson's triple.

Another excellent pitching performance by Charlie Rott enabled the Chicago Cubs to beat the champion Cardinals, 3 to 1, and take the National league lead from the Phillies.

The Boston Braves walloped the Giants 7 to 1, leaving New York securely in the cellar. Three Giant pitchers, Gibson, Bell and Parmelee aowed 10 hits at unfortunate times, while Betts went the route for Boston, yielding seven. Worthington, the Braves' left fielder, made a homer and a triple.

Babe Herman hit his first home run of the season, as Cincinnati scored its second shutout by blanking the Pirates 5 to 0.

The American league play Tuesday was slated to be featured by the first double header of the season between the Yankees and Boston Red Sox in the Hub city. They were not scheduled Monday.

Washington Senators and Detroit Tigers advanced into a tie for first place in the junior circuit with the Yankees by winning Monday. Walter Johnson's aggregation outbatted the Athletics 15 to 7, and the Tigers beat the St. Louis Browns 14 to 7.

Three homers by Manush, West and Judge drove in seven Washington runs. Foxx made his fourth homer of the season for the A's to lead the major league hitters.

In the only other American league game, Cleveland nosed out the Chicago White Sox, 2 to 1, as Wes Ferrell bested Vic Frasier in a pitching duel.

INDIANS FORGE IN LEAD ASS'N RACE

By United Press

Indianapolis, considered one of the American association's strongest teams in pre-season predictions, continued to lead the league Tuesday.

The Indians rallied in the late innings Monday to defeat St. Paul, last year's champion, 5 to 4. Both teams used three pitchers.

Kansas City went into a disputed possession of second place with a one-sided 10 to 1 victory over Toledo. Osborn, who came to the association from Pittsburgh, let the Toledo batters down with five hits while Kansas City was garnering 12 safeties.

Columbus swamped Milwaukee, 10 to 0, scoring in the first, third, fourth, sixth and seventh innings. Fowler yielded only four hits for the winners.

Minneapolis was able to make only seven hits to Louisville's 10, but won, 4 to 2. Louisville made four costly errors.

1,200 Pay Less Than 2,000 to See Schmeling

Dayton, O.—Twelve hundred fans paid less than $2,000 to see Max Schmeling, the world's heavyweight champion, in an exhibition program here last night.

Schmeling boxed two two-minute rounds with Pedro Lopez of Texas and one two-minute round with Jack Shaw of New York.

3 BOYS TRAPPED BY FIRE BURNT TO DEATH

Winnipeg, Man.—Three small boys, James Portz, 9; Lyle Keith, 10, and Laurence McNaughton, 11, all residents of Vantage, Sask., were burned to death Saturday afternoon, when trapped by flames in a porch at the rear of the United church at that point.

The lads, it is believed, were playing with kerosene and were overcome from suffocation when the oil exploded and the building burst into flames. Desperate efforts of friends and relatives to save the boys failed, and their bodies were charred beyond recognition when finally removed from the debris.

NORTHEAST BALL CLUB PLANS YEAR

At the call of John Stanley, promoter, the Northeast Brainerd Baseball club will meet Tuesday evening at the Elvig hall for the purpose of organization and planning an active season.

Northeast, one of the leading contenders in the last few years for the city baseball championship, again promises to have a team of strength in the city race.

To Sell Racing Stable of Late Joseph Leiter

Chicago—The racing stable of the late Joseph Leiter will be auctioned off at Louisville, Ky., a few days after the Chicago millionaire's will is probated here, young Thomas Leiter has announced after deciding not to take over the turf interests of his father.

About 50 horses, including Princess Camella and Prince Hotspur, the latter a Kentucky Derby eligible, are in the string which is said to have cost about $500,000.

CUBS RETURN HOME LEADING LEAGUE

Chicago—By dint of tight defensive play and sterling pitching the Chicago Cubs returned home Tuesday leading the National league race after a 6-game road trip.

The Cubs, idle Tuesday, will open a 12-game home stand Wednesday when they play their first game at Wrigley field against the rejuvenated Reds. Six games don't make a season but the Cubs have demonstrated that if a strong defense and first class pitching is going to cut any ice they are going to make a strong bid for the National league pennant.

With teams like the Cardinals and Giants, admittedly carrying more offensive strength than the Cubs, floundering in seventh and eighth places, the Cubs are gathering momentum for a spring drive which may make them hard to catch in the summer.

Although Manager Rogers Hornsby hasn't yet selected his strongest outfield combination and Shortstop Woody English is laid up with a fractured finger, the Cubs have played the finest defensive baseball in either major league thus far.

The Cubs didn't make an error in their first four games, and only two miscues in six games. Bill Jurgens, subbing for English, hurried a throw in the fifth game in trying for a double play and it went wild. Billy Herman, Rookie second baseman, blundered in attempting a double play in Monday's game.

Hornsby has used three left fielders, Riggs Stephenson, Johnny Moore and Marvin Gudat, in the six games. All have delivered at bat, Stephenson leading the regulars with .417.

Battaglia Favored Over My Sullivan

St. Paul—Although sports followers favored Frankie Battaglia, Winnipeg middleweight, to dispose easily of My Sullivan, St. Paul veteran in a 10 round bout Tuesday the latter's recent fine showing has created tremendous interest in the fight.

Sullivan this season has scored three knockouts over good opponents. In his last encounter with Battaglia he was defeated but his faithful adherents predict that he will win Tuesday night.

Sports followers, however, believe Battaglia hits too hard for Sullivan. In the 10-round semi-windup La Reine Udell, Aberdeen, S. D. heavyweight will face Louis Kid Fetting of Grand Forks, N. D., an opponent who recently held him to a draw.

Players Want Him

...regulation of Gwin Henry, above, head football coach at University of Missouri for several years, the entire spring football squad walked out on strike and petitioned the university to retain him.

Ruth Recovered from Grippe, Back in Game

Boston—Babe Ruth, fully recovered from the slight cold that forced his confinement to bed, will be in the New York Yankees lineup on Tuesday afternoon. He was not to play in the morning.

If the game is slow Ruth will leave in time to make a late afternoon train for New York to avoid a night sleeper trip.

Mother of Joe Jacobs Dies of Heart Attack

New York—Mrs. Bertha Jacobs, 61, mother of Joe Jacobs the manager of Champion Max Schmeling, died Tuesday from a heart attack at her home.

Joe left Schmeling's tour party at Dayton, O., and was to fly to New York to attend the funeral at Riverside Memorial church Wednesday. Billy McCarny, Jacobs' partner, flew from New York to Akron, O., to handle Schmeling during Joe's absence.

Yesterday's Hero—Heinie Manush who homered for the Senators, drove in five runs, scored three runs and made two hits in four times at bat.

OIL Gone...

He Drove from Banner to Sheridan on the GERM PROCESSED "Hidden Quart"

The driver for the Sheridan Motor Bus Company was ready to leave Banner Wyoming, for Sheridan with his big Red bus loaded with passengers.

Then he made a discovery. The oil line had been accidentally broken, allowing the Conoco Germ Processed Oil to drain out; and the crankcase was empty. With all Banner closed for Thanksgiving, he could not get oil and had to drive the 16 miles to Sheridan without oil. At Sheridan, inspection showed that the "Hidden Quart" of Conoco Germ Processed Oil had saved the motor from damage!

If Conoco Germ Processed Oil can protect a heavy bus with the crankcase empty, it will certainly give you sure, safe lubrication in everyday driving. It is the only oil that actually penetrates and combines with metal surfaces. That's why a "Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and never drains away. It cuts down wear in the starting period, when other oils drain away and leave parts unprotected. It gives your motor longer life, with fewer repair bills.

Have this extra protection. Change to Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil at the sign of the Conoco Red Triangle.

We neither encourage "dry crankcase" experiments nor guarantee success under all conditions. But unsolicited letters from motorists, now in our files, tell of this and hundreds of other runs with empty crankcases but without damage.

A WHOLE.
SUMMER RANKS FIRST
IN THIS RESPECT.

A BARREL CACTUS, four and a half feet high, and a foot and a half in diameter, will weigh about 400 pounds, about 370 pounds of which is water. Men, unused to desert life, have died of thirst with these water barrels standing all around them. But the cactus does not advertise its wares. Instead, it makes itself as uninviting as possible. Without its spiny armor it would have vanished from the desert long ago, a victim of thirsty birds and animals.

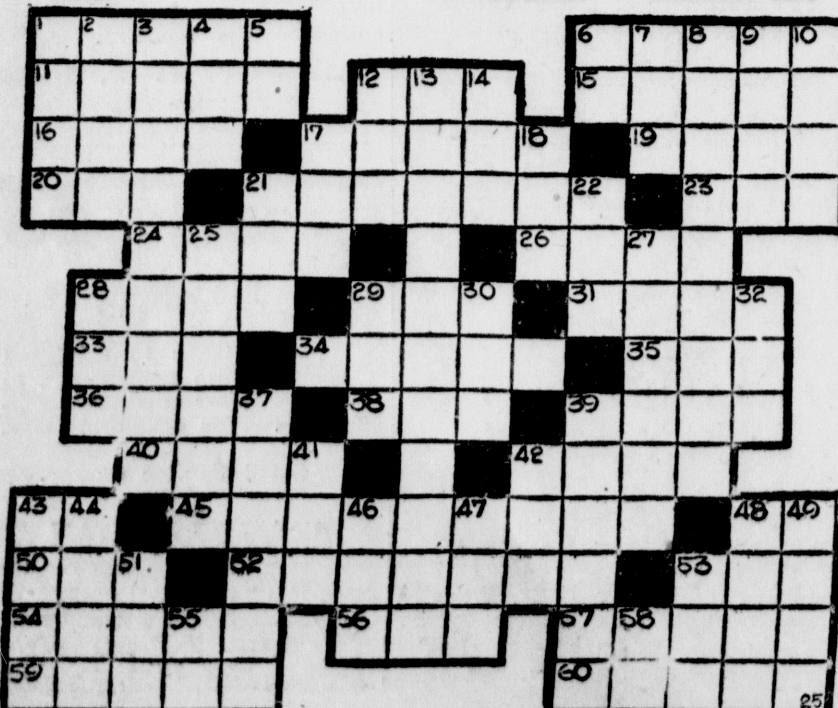

WINTER takes third place among the rainy seasons and autumn is the driest of all.
